One of the services provided by MEUSAC is focused on the dissemination of information of EU funding opportunities. Additionally, MEUSAC provides local councils and NGOs with technical assistance to develop and prepare project proposals, including the filling in of the application form.

As part of our efforts to promote funds, MEUSAC organises information sessions that include relevant information on particular calls, requirements for entities to apply, or even practical information related to the management of EU-funded projects.

On September 6, MEUSAC is organising an information session for public and private organisations interested in the various open calls under the Rights, Equality and Citizenship, and Justice Programmes.

The session will start with an introduction on common principles of the programmes and continue with small workshops focusing on the separate calls, including those related to discrimination and intolerance; protection of privacy and personal data; gender-based violence, violence against children, and the rights of victims or suspects of crime; and judicial training and cooperation.

Furthermore, this session will also enable those present to network, discuss ideas and potentially form partnerships to apply for such funds.

Those interested are kindly requested to register here, by no later than Friday, September 1, 2017.
